

Qubit Networks

July 2020 Newsletter

Visit our Website

QUBIT TECH TALK

DRONES! The sound wasn't the best, but the views are GREAT! Watch Tim Clifton and Ryan Seaburg discuss the technical side of drones.

Check it out:

WE WANT YOUR FEEDBACK!

Would you like Qubit to continue recording these monthly Tech Talks?

Absolutely!

Select

No Thanks...

Select

Meet Tim Vanslager! Tim is a Network Security Engineer at Qubit Networks and our Employee Spotlight this month.

EMPLOYEE Spotlight

Tim Vanslager

Network Security Engineer

Favorite Vacation Spot: Fort Collins, Colorado to celebrate my 10 year wedding anniversary

Hidden Talent: Jack of all trades, master of none

Last Book You Read: Contact by Carl Sagan

Qubit
Networks

Learn more about Tim HERE

AUGUST BIRTHDAYS AND

ANNIVERSARIES

Brianne Lowery celebrates her first year at Qubit on August 19th! Happy anniversary, Brianne!

PARTNER NEWS

Check Point
SOFTWARE TECHNOLOGIES LTD

Twitter Platform Compromise

A large number of high-profile Twitter accounts have been taken over in what seems to be a social media engineering attack against some of Twitter's employees. This included the accounts of Barack Obama, Joe Biden, Elon Musk, as well as the official accounts of Uber, Apple, and cryptocurrency exchanges.

READ MORE>

There have been many major changes in higher education institutions like UNC-Chapel Hill. Historically, most universities consider the in-person, in-class model to be the paramount methodology for delivering education. Yet, practically overnight the onset of COVID-19 has forced higher education institutions to rethink how they're teaching curriculums and delivering IT services to customers, staff, professors and students.

READ MORE>

TECHNOLOGY NEWS

WatchOS 7: Soon, your Apple Watch will know just how fit you really are

WatchOS 7, due to arrive this fall, brings new metrics that can reveal a lot about your overall health and can monitor fitness levels as you age.

Read More>

